Google's unfathomably-powerful AI 'Deepmind' is now making use of your amazing skills of observation. She's put together a selection of puzzles to help her get to know you. You can move the camera in any direction and tilt it to your heart's content. But don't be fooled, these puzzles are getting more difficult as you progress. Use your skills and enjoy an unusual experimental puzzle-game experience. What's New Version 1.6.2 -Fixed issues where some achievements/trophies were missing Ratings and Reviews Ratings from Users 4.6 out of 5 -- 7,216 Ratings Google sucks , 06/05/2018 Google 3 1/2 This is the worst game I have ever played on this type of platform. Most obviously this game is not fun and the puzzles are awful. I was forced to look up how to get through them. They weren't easy but they were not challenging either. Sometimes puzzles you have to solve don't even have an obvious solution. Tapping the wrong button can trigger the correct one (and you have to find that button). Sometimes I would be in the right room and tap on the wrong button and nothing would happen. Since I have a mix of google play and Apple I decided to purchase the game. I was 100% convinced the problem would be solved if I purchased from google since it's their app (but apparently Apple never got around to fixing it). So to this date, I have a game purchased from two platforms that I cannot play. This app can be addictive and there's no real motivation to get through it. I was even willing to try to redownload the game from App Store to see if I could get another chance at it since I was so disappointed. It took longer to redownload then it did to make the actual purchase. I guess I should be thankful for any issues I have with this game. What's new:

RazorTail - Looks like this got a little personal for you when the Horde teleported into the ground closest to your keep! That's why it has been completely destroyed, except for a small satchel impaled into the ground - someone was waiting for exactly this chance to use it. Well, that and your gnome cousins stop at nothing to destroy you!

RazorTail - Roasted gnome that once was a cultist of knowledge and connection with... uh, whatever they were just now using for a weapon and/or armor. That's not entirely nuts, I guess - still, why blow up some gnome stew if someone's got a survivor's instinct? Handsome fellow, for someone who just got roasted alive by the Horde, that is. They definitely don't waste the burned corpses of their servants. Horde - They're not the Horde anymore. And even if they are somehow, the gnomes are technically more advanced even without the legs!

RazorTail - Oh, excuse me! I meant to say that your race is the Horde, not us. Whatever, back to the point: Yes, it seems like the Horde really screwed up this time - er, again, I mean - Whatever! Now what? The two parties that owe you money are gone - and the other party, if there is such a party, wasn't even in on it. Questions: Do I get the gold? Can I use the impaled nestling as a weapon? So... basically... This is awesome!

Horde - Okay, RazorTail, you're next to join the Horde. If it was your plan to kill us and get our loot, you'll have to pay for the pleasure of it. You, however, have earned your seat in our ranks. You prove yourself worthy by staying alive and mining the caverns for the right to fight it out to the end, or until someone shows up to steal your prizes. That does it for both of us, so we can get out of your way. Horde - Wow, RazorTail. I don't care how smart you are or how much treasure you have. You definitely deserve whatever treatment the Horde can dish out. Which is to say: Whammo!

Horde - Probably, except Dredger didn't have much time to prepare that wall of flame.

This is a mini game that takes place in the old times. There is no linear story. It is the goal of the game to make sure that the player is thoroughly satisfied. Early Access Status The project is still in Early Access stage. Feel free to give your feedback. Links: Artwork Try out the demo. Like us on Facebook A: Well, you're pretty much into the right path when it comes to pixel art. I'd like to show you a couple of some great examples of what pixel art looks like: These are from the indie game Teleglitch, by Miloš Forman. In his first post he talks about his past work, one of the projects (which was already successful) is a classic 8-bit version of the game, that started as this: These are the pixel art skills that are required for this project [and] now he has posted a new project This is what you need to learn, in order to get to a good pixel art. First of all you need to learn to draw, and then you need to learn how to use the computer to create art. But even if you don't like pixel art, it's something you can learn. The fact that you work on pixel art don't make you any less of an artist. In fact, it puts you at a good spot to learn more about art and digital art. Pixel art is a great thing for entertainment. This is what I always tell those who don't like pixel art, and try to convince them otherwise: instead of painting with a brush, and use pencils to create their art, why don't use the computer? Instead of using something like photoshop, you can just draw with some free tools. So this goes to show that the tools matter (in a way) but the final art can be created using pencils. The tools are just guides, and of course the art itself is what matters. If you want to get to a good art form, it's important to learn how to draw, and be creative, but pixel art is just a step towards a more advanced form of art. For example, some artists love creating animations. Or you can get to do 3D art.
